

Please accept this

Official Permission™ to write

Garbage.

Sometimes you need to just write down that absolute crap ending and get on with your life. No one is going to see it, no one need know. Later on you can pretend the story leapt onto the page absolutely perfect, like Athena from the brow of Zeus. But you can't show off how easy it all was if you don't finish your first draft. After all, as a wise person once told me, you can't edit what you haven't written yet. So I hereby bestow upon the bearer or whatever of this certificate Official Permission™ to just give it a go, and not worry about the results until it's time to revise.

Victoria Feistner

SF Author and official permission dispenser

victoriafeistner.com

